LOMBOK currently has 15 stores nationwide. The Brighton store was opened in August 2005 and like all LOMBOK stores it has been styled to give a sense of how its furniture would work in real homes. The shop extends over two floors, showcasing the furniture in a range of settings on both levels. LOMBOK chose Stannah Lifts Ltd to provide an access solution for those customers with restricted mobility wanting to see the displayed furniture on the first floor.

CASE STUDY

LOMBOK is a small privately-owned furniture chain, offering handmade, affordable, solid-wood furniture. The company insists on top quality design, craftsmanship and materials, and ensures almost all designs are exclusive to them. The Far East provides the inspiration for the furniture design, which is handcrafted in Indonesia using reclaimed teak from disused houses.

A strikingly elegant staircase greets customers as they enter the store, and will lead them to the furniture displayed on the first floor. Stannah's Stairiser CR platform lift provides access up the grand staircase for people with impaired mobility. The platform lift travels up and down the curved stairs with ease, and the joystick control and steady speed gives the user complete confidence. A non-slip platform floor with ramps and barrier arms that lower around the user gives a feeling of security whilst the lift is in operation.

Alongside the furniture Lombok also offer a wealth of accessories, from lacquerware to lamps, cushions and hand-embroidered linens to sensual ceramics. The materials are sourced primarily from the Far East and made from recycled or natural materials.

As style, image and finish are a priority for Lombok, it was important that the selected access solution did not distract from the aesthetics of the store. The operating rail blends in with the surrounding décor and the lift platform also folds neatly away leaving the full width of the staircase for pedestrians.
